BRITAIN READY FOR CRISIS.

SHA FORCE TROOPS MAY GO TO TIENSIN.

NORTHERN SUCCESSES RELIEVE THE SITUATION.

HANKOW CLASH EXPLAINED

The fighting between Chen Chien's forces and those of Li Chung-yen in Hankow yesterday was in consequence of the detention of the former general, who apparently sought to dominate Hunan affairs. The Hankow Political Council is urging the dismissal of General Chen Chien, and Nanking is considering the dissolution of the Council.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hwang Fu has resigned his post as Minister for Foreign Affairs, pressure having been brought to bear by the Cantonese clique. Dr. C. T. Wang is his likely successor.

British naval wireless messages indicate that the Northern forces are meeting with success in their new offensives and that Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang's cavalry have been forced to retire at Hukien, while the Shansi forces have suffered a reverse at Nanchow.

In the House of Commons, questions have been asked regarding British troops sent to Weihaiwei, and it was disclosed that a battalion of the Shanghai Defence Force has been sent there in readiness for assistance at Tientsin if the necessity arises.

NANKING FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS.

Shanghai, May 22. Tientsin, May 22. Much interest has been aroused by a Hankow telegram received from Peking yesterday to the effect that a clash of the cable. It seems likely that part of the Nagoya Division of Japanese troops will be sent up to Tientsin.—Naval Wireless.

Chingwutiao Defences.

Tientsin, May 22. The Japanese authorities are strengthening the guard on the railway and also that at the wireless station. Six aeroplanes are likely to arrive from Korea to-morrow.—Naval Wireless.

Chingwutiao Defences.

Chingwutiao, May 22. As vernacular telegram explains the clash as follows: "The troops of General Chen Chien are being disarmed by order of General Li Chung-yen, following a dispute over the Northern Expedition. Yesterday the Branch Political Council of Wuchang and Hankow dispatched a lengthy cable to the Nanking Nationalist Government, denouncing the treacherous attitude and disobedience of General Chen Chien, and urging the Government to dismiss him from leadership of the Hunan troops. Chen Chien is resisting the efforts to dislodge him."

General Chen Chien Detained.

Shanghai, May 23. The fighting between the 6th and 7th Nationalist Armies in Hankow broke out as a consequence of General Chen Chien having been placed under detention by General Li Chung-yen, on the orders of the Hankow Political Council.

The Council issued the order after a special meeting held on Monday, and instructed General Li to carry it out immediately. The complaint against General Chen is that he insists on controlling the civil and financial affairs of Hunan Province, thereby ignoring the functions of the Hupeh-Hunan Financial Readjustment Committee.

The Hankow Political Council has now wired to the Nanking Government asking it to issue an order for the dismissal of General Chen.

It is expected that the Nanking Government will call a meeting today for the purpose of dealing with the incident.

General opinion is that the Nanking Government will order the dissolution of the Hankow Political Council and the formation of a Hunan Government as soon as possible.

SOUTHERNERS SET-BACK.

Northern Forces Fighting Back. Naval Wireless messages received in Hongkong this morning indicate that recent fighting has gone against the Southern forces. The Northern forces are in touch with the Shensi troops at Nanchow and also with Fong's cavalry at Hukien.

Japanese Reinforcements.

Taingtiao, May 22. The Japanese naval rating and marines which have been on shore duty for some time are returning to their ships. Their duties are being taken over by troops, 4,000 men of the Nagoya Division having arrived here.—Naval Wireless.

WITHDRAWAL PROMISE

Tokyo, May 23. The groundlessness of the suspicions of Japan's intentions in China were emphasised this morning in a personal interview granted by Lieut. General Hata, the Vice-Minister for War, to Reuter's correspondent at Tokyo.

Press reports which had reached Japan, he said, had been taken to indicate that there were apprehensions abroad that Japan's recent military movements foreshadow the establishment of permanent control of Shantung and the formation of a Protectorate in Manchuria.

"Nothing, however, is further from our minds," he said.

"Soldiers Must Obey."

"The so-called militarists in Japan are frequently accused of forcing the Government to adopt a high-handed policy in China, but the fact is that the soldier in Japan is merely an instrument of the civil Government, just the same as in England, America and other countries.

"As soldiers, we can advise the Government, but we must obey and not command them," declared Lieut. Gen. Hata.

"Baron Tanaka, the Premier, has publicly declared the intention of withdrawing the troops from Shantung as soon as the present danger is past and as soon as apologies have been made, and appropriate punishment meted out to those responsible for the outrage against our countrymen.

The report, it is stated, is not surprising as it has been expected for some time that he would resign his commission with the Irish Free State and enter the field of commercial aviation in America.—Reuter's American Service.

Montreal, May 22. The three "Bremen" liners have arrived here. They were welcomed by large crowds and were the guests of honour at an official banquet.—Reuter's American Service.

"In the case of Manchuria, we still hope it will prove unnecessary for us to send more troops, but if circumstances force us to do so, you may rest assured they will be withdrawn at the earliest possible opportunity, just the same as in 1925 at the conclusion of the Kuo Sung-hin Rebellion.

"Every country with interests in China has been obliged within recent years to take steps which they would not dream of applying where a normal Government is functioning."

Judge by Circumstances.

Lieut. General Hata admitted that Japan's determination to keep the Civil War out of Manchuria goes further, perhaps, than the measures taken elsewhere in China by other Powers, but the Japanese action must be judged by the circumstances.

"Is it better for Japan to wait until bandit armies have swept over Manchuria and reduced the province to ruins, or that Japan should step in now and save her from sharing the fate of the other provinces?

Anglo-American Action Cited.

"England's timely action prevented chaos in Shanghai last year, and America did not hesitate to send troops to protect her countrymen in Nicaragua.

"Surely Japan cannot be blamed if she adopts similar precautionary measures in Manchuria," concluded Lieut. General Hata.—Reuter.

MINER SAVED BY A MIRACLE.

ONLY ONE ALIVE IN THE MOTHER DISASTER.

BURIED FOR 60 HOURS.

New York, May 22. A miraculous escape from death is reported from the Mother Mine at Brownsville, where rescue workers have come across one man, seriously affected, but still alive, after six hours' burial in the fallen earth.

He had the good fortune to be confined in an air-lock and is expected to recover.

Dead bodies of the victims of the explosion are still being taken out, and the death-roll has now reached 82.

It is established that 115 men have still to be accounted for, and it is feared that their names will have to be added to the list of dead.

In view of the miraculous escape recorded; however, the rescue parties are redoubling their efforts.—Reuter's American Service.

P.W.D. Employee.

Among those arrested yesterday for distributing "seditious" pamphlets was a citizen in the employ of the Public Works Department named Li Yau, aged 23. Others include Fung Lam, 31 years of age, of no occupation and no fixed abode, Lo Mel, 38 years of age, described as a coolie, living in No. 2 Tai Wong Street, and Lai Chong-sang, a shroff, living at 118 Praya East.

"These four men were arraigned before Lt. Col. F. Eaves, D.S.O., acting first Magistrate, this morning and on the application of the police, were remanded for week.

The police told His Worship that the remand was necessary in order that the documents seized could be translated by the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs.

Shroff Pleads Not Guilty.

When the charges of possession of seditious literature were outlined, the first and second man pleaded guilty. The coolie, Lo Mel, said that he was one of a large audience who heard an oration and was handed one of the pamphlets whilst he was listening to the speaker. The fourth man, the shroff pleaded not guilty.

As regards bail, Sergeant Whelan, who prosecuted, said he had been instructed to oppose bail, unless it was in a substantial amount. His Worship pointed out that bail had not been sought.

Hat Smashing Campaign.

Before Major C. Willson, a Chinese was charged with smashing hats worn by two travelling traders yesterday. He was also charged with possession of seditious literature.

Police statements to the Magistrate showed that as two travelling traders were proceeding along Connaught Road West, near the Empress Hotel, they were met by the defendant who enquired of the first man—"Where did you get that hat?"

The hat in question was a straw, and without waiting for a reply from the wearer, the defendant knocked it off and smashed it in." The defendant treated the second travelling trader in similar manner smashing his hat in addition.

Seditious Papers.

Having ruined two hats, the defendant told the first trader he would have to buy a new one and offered to replace the hat worn by the second travelling trader with one of Chinese make.

The extraordinary action naturally drew a crowd and the police were soon attracted to the scene. Defendant was arrested. At the time of the arrest he was carrying an umbrella and later it was found that a quantity of anti-Japanese papers were concealed in it.

Pleading guilty to the charge of damaging the hats, the defendant was ordered by his Worship to pay $2 compensation to each of the two traders.

Anti-Japanese demonstrations have been less pronounced within the last twenty-four hours, but a number of agitators have been arrested for distributing what are described as "seditious" pamphlets.

A SUCCESSFUL APPEAL.

JUDGMENTS IN THE INFANTS' MORTGAGE CASE.

MR. WOOD DISAGREES.

The infants' mortgage appeal case, which was heard by the full Court of Appeal at the Supreme Court by the Chief Justice, Sir Henry Gollan, Sir Peter Grain and Mr. Justice Wood, was disposed of yesterday afternoon when judgment was delivered by Sir Henry Gollan, sitting with Mr. P. Jacks, in which the appeal was allowed.

The case centred round a mortgage on Hongkong property for $400,000 in which two brothers, Li Koon-chun and Lo Kwong-hin, asked for their share of the mortgage to be ruled null and void on the ground that they were under 21 years of age when they signed the deeds. The respondents, Li Koon-chun and Kan Tong-po, two elder brothers, alleged that the appellants had falsely represented themselves to be of age.

The original judgment was delivered by Mr. Justice Wood, when he was acting Chief Justice, which was adverse to the younger brothers (plaintiffs and appellants) and against which the appeal was allowed. Both Sir Henry Gollan and Sir Peter Grain ruled the mortgage null and void but Mr. Justice Wood adhered to his original decision in the main, and expressed the opinion that the appeal should be dismissed.

The appellants claimed: 1. A declaration that as regards their interest in one third part of the whole of the property the indenture be declared null and void. 2. A declaration that the covenant to repay was inapplicable to them and, to that extent, null and void. 3. A declaration that one third part of the mortgaged property was vested in the defendants (respondents) as trustees to have and to hold for the use of the plaintiffs (appellants). 3. An order from the court that the respondents execute an assignment in favour of the appellants of an interest in the property equivalent to one third of the whole.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., together with Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Messrs. Hall Burton were for the appellants and the case for the respondents was conducted by Mr. F. C. Jenkin, instructed by Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master.

After setting out the history of the case Sir Henry Gollan referred to the parts taken by Mr. T. L. Sung, now dead, a former senior interpreter to Messrs. Dennis and Bowley, which is now Messrs. Hastings, Dennis and Bowley, and Leung Wing-cheung in assisting the brothers to obtain their rights when the former demanded 10 per cent. of the value they recovered and later demanded an additional five per cent. for Leung Wing-cheung, alias Walter Ford. According to the evidence a sum totalling 15 per cent. was paid to Sung but Leung had sworn the money was paid to him on another account altogether. "It is not material to this case to assess the credibility of the evidence on this point. It would be difficult to record final decision upon it satisfactorily without Mr. Sung's evidence. A suspicion remains with me that the plaintiffs and their four brothers have, in this manner, been victimised by their agents in a way for which they themselves are in large measure to blame."

"It is obvious that it was of importance to Sung and Leung that the documents executed on 10th February, 1926, should be signed without any question arising about the infancy of Lam and Hin; if it did the whole transaction might not have gone through. In any case Sung and Leung would not have received their 15 per cent. from the two infants."

Fraud Question.

After dealing with the second mortgage for $100,000 which, it was alleged by the plaintiffs, was mainly for the purpose of paying the respective percentages to Sung and Leung, his Lordship went on to deal with the aspect of fraud put forward by the defendants in their pleadings. This was to the effect that the infants fraudulently signed the documents by concealing the fact that they were not of age. It was further alleged that on February 10, 1926, in the office of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, it was stated verbally on behalf of the plaintiffs and in their presence by T. L. Sung that the plaintiffs were both of age. In this connexion his Lordship said "Even, therefore, if I was satisfied that this statement had been made by Sung on behalf of Lam to Messrs. Hastings, Dennis and Bowley, and that it was said on the latter, I do not see how it can be said to have deceived the defendants and induced them to act to their detriment seeing that it was never communicated to them, so far as the evidence shows."

Conflict of Evidence.

His Lordship continued "Leung's evidence on behalf of the defendants was most important in this connexion. He corroborates Li Koon-chun and Kan Tong-po and he further stated that when the mortgage was being executed at Messrs. Hastings, Dennis and Bowley, Lam had, when the matter of age was being discussed, tapped his chest and said 'I am of age.' Lam absolutely denies that he did any such thing or made any statement. None of the other witnesses called for the defence speak to this incident and it is further to be observed that when the letter of 4th September, 1926, was written, Leung was also available and yet nothing was said in that letter about this alleged express misrepresentation made by Lam as to his age."

After dealing further with the point, and remarking that Leung's recovery of five per cent. depended on the transaction going through, his Lordship gave it as his opinion that Leung's uncorroborated statement should not be accepted in preference to Lam's denial.

Leung's Personal Interest.

His Lordship continued to deal with the case as regards age and fraud when the release was executed, after which he said "After a careful consideration of the evidence I have come to the conclusion that, having regard to the personal interest which Sung and Leung had in putting this transaction through, and to the small amount of reliance that can be placed on the evidence of Leung, I am unable to accept the evidence of the latter when it conflicts with that of either of the plaintiffs. As his is the only direct evidence as to any express misrepresentation made by Hin, I am of opinion that I must accept Hin's statement with regard to this matter."

"As I have already shown, Leung is corroborated by the two defendants as regards the statement made by Sung on the subject of Lam's age; but these latter were very late in recollecting any such representation. The defendant Li Koon-chun only recollects the fact after a conference at which Leung was present, and all the circumstances of this case make me distrustful of any inspiration derived from that person. On the whole I have come to the conclusion to accept Lam's denial with regard to this matter."

"There is a further consideration which also affects my judgment. In none of the evidence is it ever said that Lam and Hin were stated or alleged themselves to be 21 years of age; the expression used in each instance is 'of full age.' Now, it is obvious that such an expression with reference to a Chinese youth is, to say the least of it, ambiguous."

No Interpretation.

After summarising the findings of Mr. Justice Wood, his Lordship went on to deal with the points argued by the defence on the questions of age and fraud. In this connexion he said "Sung is dead and the plaintiffs both deny that the release was ever interpreted to them; and I am of opinion that there is no evidence on which it would be safe to come to the conclusion that the release was ever, in fact, interpreted to either of the plaintiffs."

Dealing with authorities, his Lordship said "In view of the opinion I have formed as to the absence of any fraudulent misrepresentation on the part of the plaintiff it is not necessary for me to express any definite opinion on this part of the case made on behalf of the plaintiffs. I will only say that most of the authorities cited were cases where the party aggrieved was suing an infant defendant; not of an infant plaintiff, who admitted his fraudulent conduct, seeking directly to victimise an honest and deceived defendant."

His Lordship further said "A point was taken by Mr. Justice Wood in his judgment that this action is not properly constituted as certain necessary parties are lacking. Counsel for the respondents did not rely on this point in answer to the prayer of the appellants that the judgment should be set aside; and I therefore do not propose to deal with it except by saying that I do not think it precludes this court from granting the relief asked for on this appeal."

Appeal Allowed.

After referring to an authority, his Lordship concluded "I am of opinion that no express representation has been conclusively brought home to either of the plaintiffs in this case, that this appeal should be allowed, and that they are entitled to the relief they ask for in paragraph seven of the statement of claim, with costs here and in the Court below."

Sir Peter Grain.

In his judgment, which was read by Mr. P. Jacks, Sir Peter Grain, after enumerating the claims of the appellants, said "The main defence to the statement of claim, and I think I may say the only real defence, was that the plaintiffs represented themselves as being able to make the said mortgage or were privy to such representation, to the knowledge of the plaintiffs was false and fraudulent and, furthermore, induced the defendants to become parties to the said mortgage."

"The main issue in this case is, whether the fraud alleged against the appellants was proved by clear, conclusive and explicit evidence?"

"In testing the evidence given at the trial, I am of opinion that the evidence of Sung, Tsui-lun and Leung Wing-cheung, the interpreters, should be jettisoned and not considered. I am of opinion that they were both biased witnesses, they were interested in the transaction being completed, and each was to receive some commission on the completion of the transaction. Suspicion is therefore cast upon their credibility and their credibility is very material to the issue, and consequently I do not rely on their statements."

Meaning of "Full Age."

"In the course of the negotiations and the carrying out of the transaction, according to the evidence, the phrase of 'being 21 years of age' never seems to have been used, the phrase always used was 'full age.' According to Chinese law, 'full age' is about 16 years of age or thereabouts, and the appellants had already carried through some transactions concerning land in Macao either according to Chinese law or the law prevailing in Macao, where 21 years was not the age of majority, but an age far less than 21 years."

"The learned trial judge in the Court below found as a fact that the appellants had acquired a working knowledge of English. I must accept that although as they did not speak English in the witness box, the only evidence of their knowledge was that they had been to Hongkong University and said they could speak English. But a working knowledge of the English language and the understanding of a legal document drawn up in English legal phraseology, are two very different things."

"I think I am justified in saying that the average Englishman (not being a lawyer), who has an English legal document read to him, would understand nothing or very little of what it was intended to convey. He would have to go through it sentence by sentence and phrase by phrase before he would realize the real purport of the document."

"How much more difficult it would be for a Chinese speaking youth to comprehend the facts stated in the formal English legal deed, translated from the legal and technical English phraseology into Chinese by a Chinese interpreter. The appellants said that the documents were not translated to them; and I consider that the balance of the evidence shows that it is very doubtful whether they are translated."

Fraud Not Established.

"Having gone through all the evidence at the trial I am of opinion that there is no evidence of that clear, conclusive and explicit character which has been held so necessary in many reported cases to establish a plea of fraud. I am therefore of opinion that the mortgage deed is null and void."

"I am therefore of opinion that this appeal be allowed and that the appellants are entitled to the relief asked for in the statement of claim, with costs here and in the Court below."

Deliberate Fraud.

In upholding the judgment given in the low court, Mr. Justice J. R. Wood said "I am still satisfied that the appellants both intended to obtain money for themselves, to which they knew they were not immediately entitled, also, that with this object they deliberately exercised for themselves the legal capacity of adults, fraudulently, with the intention of pronouncing their contract, if at any time the market, went against them. Solicitors and others were media through which the appellants conveyed their false representation to the respondents, thus inducing them to contract. Their fraud was actual, and was actively prosecuted through agents."

"The idea of fraud applicable to this case may be analysed in the following way: If the appellants were sued by the respondents for a declaration that by reason of the appellants' fraud the respondents were entitled to avoid this contract, they could state that the representation made was so made without their knowledge, yet it was made without their understanding of its meaning and effect. They would thus negative the allegation of intention to deceive. Also they could admit that they both knew the fact of the representation and its effects, and thus adopting the deceit might, pleading their infancy, say that they were not active participants in the representation itself, but were merely acquiescent in the representation of others, or again might allege that the representation was not made to the plaintiffs in the action and did not induce any line of conduct on their part. Thus, though admitting their deceit, they might still support their contracts."

Plaintiffs Understood.

"In these proceedings it was found in the Court below that the appellants, who are plaintiffs, knew that the false representation made was being made, and also understood its meaning and effect. The judgment below has decided that the representation was made to all whom it might concern, and that among those concerned were the respondents."

"It also found that the appellants actively perpetrated this fraud through their agents. On this issue of fraud, I re-affirm the opinion formed below. The dishonest purpose was carried into effect by concurrent signature of a series of legal documents. My opinion was formed on seeing the appellants as witnesses. It remains unshaken even though my judgment seems to have been in error in certain statements concerning the deed of release. That deed did not, in fact, contain an express reference to the age of the appellants themselves and it appears never in fact to have been

Fashion Notes.

THE SLIM LINE STILL POPULAR.

The slim line in clothes is still to be counted with. Some dresses which were shown last month in a mid-season collection in Paris exemplified it very well. The skirts were tight round the hips, with a flow from below them, the bodices were slim and lightly bloused or made with a loose bolero all round which dipped behind, rose a little in front and gave to the whole dress a graceful flowing movement.

Many black evening dresses in lace, in jet, and in georgette were beautifully slim and graceful. The lace used was varnished and had in some cases a pale foundation skirt, either flesh pink or biscuit cream. The skirts were flounced from below the hips with one deep flounce or two or three smaller ones, and when in jet they swung like a kilt in movement. The bodices were all cut in a deep oval at the back and were quite to the base of the throat in front. One side of the bodice had the usual shoulder piece to hold it in place, the other side was caught over the shoulder by an inch wide tie which was knotted into a bow with long ends. This odd fashion was frequently observed.

Race Frocks.

Afternoon dresses were also flounced, but some had also a looped or two-panel drapery on the left side. The lower panel drops below the hem, the upper panel laps over the lower panel. A black satin dress was made in this way, with a bloused bodice, pointed neck, long tight sleeves, and a straight cape behind which was caught like a Watteau train at the waist. A sash about two inches wide was carried from under the train at the waist to tie in front.

Quite the most distinguished figured crepe dresses shown in this collection were in beige and black or beige and brown, a small pattern which ran all over the groundwork; several shades of each colour were worked into the pattern and the effect is soft and becoming. A figured crepe dress of this kind, made with flounces, has a dark plain coal lined with the dress material. The line of the dress flows, the line of the coat is straight. Long sleeves, draped necks, not nearly so much fur as was used last year for trimming, a great deal of tucking, ribbing, encrusting on the materials used, both for coats and dresses. The result is soft and rich, and pleasing.

Checks and Plaids.

Some of the little country dresses in checks and plaided summer materials are charming. They button down the front, have flat pleats from a well-cut yoke held in place by belts at the waist and smart little collars and ties. In bright colours, with short sleeveless sack coats, these dresses are ideal for the country or the sea. Then there are taffeta dresses for the races, in black and white with big bows at the neck and bunched hip draperies. Simple crepe georgette dresses under capes of crepe marocain are also worn for the races and town parties; every afternoon dress has long sleeves. Only tennis dresses are short-sleeved.

The jumpsuit with a long or short coat, made of jersey and cloth or tweed, is kept for the morning, for travelling, or for the country. It is not so much worn in town as the tailor-made. This is seen in Paris to-day in black satin, in brown satin, in ribbed silks, moire, and taffeta. With a fresh lingerie blouse nothing looks trimmer or more Parisienne.

Knee Bracelets.

PARISIENNE'S NEW FASHION.

Knee bracelets in finely woven gold or platinum, set with diamonds and other precious stones, are the latest Paris society novelty.

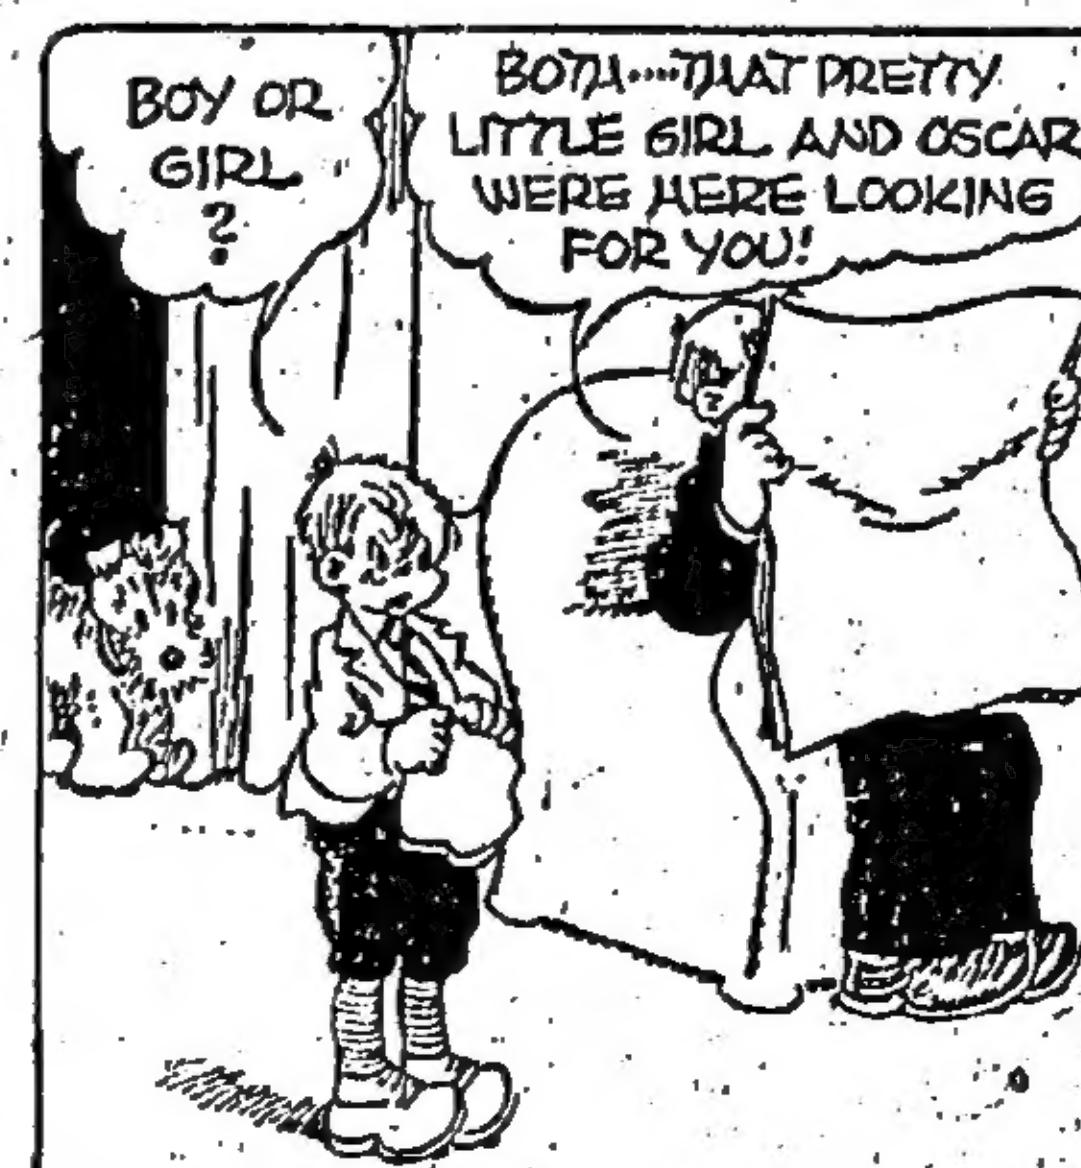

They were seen for the first time at a dance at the Lido—the Venice of Paris. The short skirts of the day allow the bracelets to be seen at frequent intervals during the dance, the gems with which they are set flashing and disappearing alternately as the wearer moves.

Some of the bracelets seen were stated to have cost tens of thousands of pounds.

Then there are taffeta dresses for the races, in black and white with big bows at the neck and bunched hip draperies. Simple crepe georgette dresses under capes of crepe marocain are also worn for the races and town parties; every afternoon dress has long sleeves. Only tennis dresses are short-sleeved.

LANDSCAPES IN MARBLE.

UNIQUE DECORATION IN LONDON CAFE.

The heroine in "The Bohemian Girl," who "dreamt that she dwelt in marble halls," would find her dream realised at Lyons' new Oxford Corner House, at the junction of Oxford-street and Tottenham-court-road.

For here are actual landscapes in marble, which sweep in vistas or delicate colour round the walls of restaurant and cafe.

The work is like nothing else hitherto attempted in such decoration.

It is nothing less than gigantic landscapes 20ft. high and hundreds of feet long, formed of marble of different colours and shades.

It is in no sense mosaic work, where tiny squares are fitted together to form the picture.

Two-Ton Slabs.

Here are great slabs of marble weighing as much as two tons each, forming definite parts of the picture.

In the ground-floor cafe a material motif is repeated round the walls.

In the foreground are rocks, pine trees in foliage, gaunt trunks of trees weathered by storms, while in the middle distance is the waterfall foaming over the rocks.

The whole scene is vividly realistic. Instead of a blank wall, there is a sense of space.

Experts searched the marble quarries of the world to fit the picture together.

From Africa came the Numidian red for the foreground rocks; from Italy the Vert de Alpes for the foliage, and the Sienna and the Portoro for the black and gold of the tree-trunks; from Greece the Cippolina for the cascade; from Ireland the brilliant jade-green for the little rocks on the edge of the waterfall.

Not less interesting is the vast marble picture girdling the great restaurant on the first floor. Here there is an impression of sitting on the verandah of an hotel overlooking a gorgeous vista of lake and mountain scenery.

These scenes have been achieved by cutting a block of marble in various directions against the grain to form a little island, or with the grain to get the deep green of cypress trees.

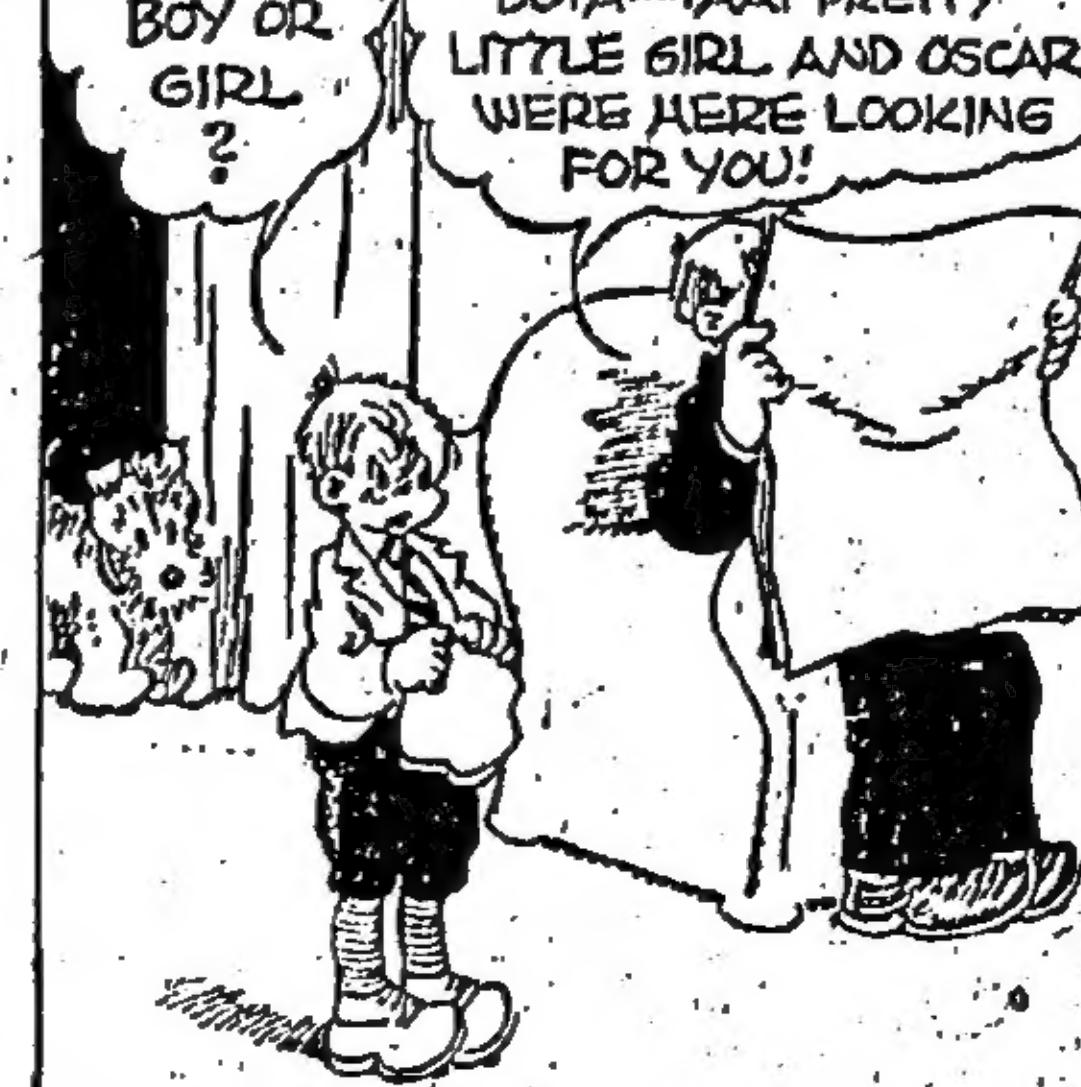

The pictures were designed by Mr. Oliver P. Bernard, and were carried out in marble by Messrs. John Stubbs and Son, of Liverpool, London and Carrara.

Over 550 tons of marble were used.

JAPAN'S FIRM STAND.

Read in conjunction with Dr. C. Wu's appeal to the United States Government to give its moral support to the Chinese against Japan's policy in Manchuria, the lengthy statement by the Japanese Minister in Peking, which we published yesterday, is intensely interesting. It followed a report that America might be prepared to step in and mediate if approached by both sides, but Mr. Yoshizawa makes it very plain that mediation by any third party would not be welcome. This declaration was made in regard to the despatch of a third contingent of troops to Shantung, but inasmuch as the Japanese assert that the precautions which they are taking in Manchuria are inspired by the same motives which actuated the sending of forces to Shantung—namely, the protection of the lives and property of Japanese subjects—we may take it that a like attitude would be adopted towards our Power which sought to raise objections concerning the disposition of Japan's troops in Manchuria.

One of the points on which Japan objects to any attempt at mediation appears to be that action along these lines would be tantamount to recognition of the Nationalist Government. According to Mr. Yoshizawa, Japan regards the Nationalists as having "no unified Government nor status as an independent State," and, holding that view, she would consider anything in the nature of recognition as premature. So strongly does she feel on this point, indeed, that any effort at mediation involving such recognition would be esteemed "as an attempt to assume a highly unfriendly attitude towards Japan." As one reads Mr. Yoshizawa's declaration, the fact becomes patent that the Tokyo Government, having considered the whole situation most carefully, has thoroughly made up its mind as to the policy which it intends to adopt in the present crisis, and is prepared to stick to it at all costs. Even those who differ with Japan's standpoint must at least admire the refreshing candour of her attitude. The Japanese policy has this further recommendation—that there has been no attempt at "hole and corner" methods. What Tokyo has decided to do she has let the whole world know. All the signatories to the Nine-Power Treaty may not have been conferred with, but just prior to the despatch of the third contingent of troops to Shantung, the Japanese Premier invited the representatives of Britain, the United States, France and Italy to the Foreign Office, where he described in detail the grounds on which Japan felt compelled to intervene.

That there are important points of international law involved by Japan's action in Manchuria, it would be idle to deny. But the situation is not so transparently clear as the Nationalists would contend. It must not be forgotten that in recent years, Manchuria has been largely independent of China, except when Chang Tso-lin happened to be in charge of the Government at Peking, in which circumstance he nominally controlled both places. Then, also, the tremendous growth of Japan's interests in the territory makes her concern for the preservation of peace and order quite understandable. She obviously does not want the chaos and disorders and outrages common to so great a part of China to be allowed to spread into Manchuria, the proximity of which to Korea must not be overlooked. Indeed, it seems to us that Japan's policy in Manchuria can be likened to that of Britain when she recently informed the United States, in her Note on the No-War Pact, that "there are certain regions of the world, the welfare and integrity of which constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety;" that the protection of these regions is a measure of self-defence; and that any interference with such measures cannot be suffered.

New Quake Disaster.

Mother Earth has vented her fateful mood so frequently and in such a variety of places already this year, that we are beginning to wonder where she will strike next. With a disaster in Java, and a panic following a sharp earthquake shock at Tokyo still fresh in the mind, both coming within a week, news came through yesterday that two Peruvian townships have been reduced to ruins by another severe shock and that many lives have been lost. Jane and Pimpinecos suffered most severely in a quake which affected a very wide area, and it is the more distressing as in some cases houses rebuilding from a similar visitation last month, have been destroyed. Even the casual newspaper reader cannot fail to have been struck by the remarkable series of seismic shocks experienced already since the beginning of the year. It makes a formidable list. In January, Germany, Kenya, Mexico, Alaska, Belgium and Rome registered shocks of more or less severity; in February, Austria, Japan, the Philippines, Palestine, Mexico, and Portugal felt shocks. In March, the places visited were Mexico, Central Asia, Messina and California, while a few volcanic eruptions, notably Krakatoa, added to the bad record; in April, Smyrna, Mexico, Peru, Salonika, Johannesburg, and the more serious ones at Corinth and Bulgaria were recorded. We have already detailed the one or two which have brought terror to populations in different parts of the world during May. Indeed, it is the fact that the visitations are affecting places so widely apart that it has attracted so much attention. The cause of the phenomena is unknown, and in spite of modern science and delicate instruments we are no nearer to a satisfactory solution. For the time being, we have to be content to register the shock and record the event. Some day perhaps science will be in a position to predict with assurance the incidence and thereby enable precautions which will preclude the deplorable loss of life and property which invariably is the outstanding feature of the disturbances.

This morning's Harbour Office reports gave 22 arrivals and 24 departures, leaving 55 vessels in harbour, of which 17 were British. Japanese registered the top figures. In arrivals, without departures, while the British departures were extremely heavy. Tonnage will be a safer place to walk about in. Pleasant to live in, too. Don't you think so?—Yours, etc.

FUNERAL TAKES PLACE ON FRIDAY.

The funeral of the late Mr. Lee Hsyan, the well-known Chinese millionaire who was murdered recently outside a club in Wellington Street, is to take place on Friday. The procession will leave the deceased's residence at No. 74, Kennedy Road at 10 o'clock in the morning.

DAY BY DAY.

LET US TAKE CARE THAT IN STRAINING AFTER WHAT IS DESIRABLE WE DO NOT LOSE WHAT IS VITAL AND ESSENTIAL, THAT IN GRASPING WHAT WE SHOULD LIKE TO HAVE WE DO NOT SLIP DOWN UNTO THE BOG.—Lord Rosebery.

Two Chinese cases of typhoid were notified yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson left for Australia by the Misima Maru to-day.

The P. and O. s.s. Malwa, from Shanghai, is due here at 6 a.m. on Friday.

The Bishop of Macao (Mr. da Costa Nunes) left by the M.M. liner Athos II for Singapore yesterday. The body was buried at sea.

The Blue Funnel liner Teucer, arriving from Tacoma and Milne, reports the death of one Chinese passenger en route from Seattle. The body was buried at sea.

The s.s. President Lincoln, from Shanghai, reports a small fire in No. 5 hold, which broke out some 24 hours after leaving Shanghai. The outbreak was quickly got under control and only small damage resulted.

Among the heavy cargoes in this morning's return was 510,000 gallons of gasoline by the a.s. Etahn Allen from New Orleans. The Admiral Oriental Line are the local agents and the ship is at present anchored in Gin Drinker Bay.

A police raid was carried out on an isolated hut in Lantau Island yesterday resulting in the seizure of a printing plant for po piu tickets. The inmates of the hut are at present detained by the authorities for investigation.

To-morrow, and Monday next having been declared general holidays, the Harbour Department will be closed except the Entries and Clearance Office, which will open from 10 a.m. to noon, and the Junk Office from 11 a.m. to noon, on both days.

Shorty after noon yesterday a young Chinese attempted to alight from a moving bus when nearing the China Light-and-Power's installation in Laichikou Road. He fell on his back and sustained serious injuries from which he died shortly after admission to Hospital.

A father and son, aged 41 and 7 respectively, were sent to the Government Civil Hospital last night, suffering from the effects of an explosion which took place at 250, Queen's Road, West, first floor. They were both burned on the arms, chest and face. The explosion is said to have been caused by the mixing of Chinese medicines.

According to a police report a Chinese woman was swindled of jewellery valued at $30 at 4.30 this morning. She told the police that while she was in a hui (the name of which she did not know) she met a coolie woman who told her it was dangerous to carry so much jewellery about at night. She was induced to entrust the jewellery to the care of the coolie woman who has since disappeared.

At the junction of Victoria Street and Bras Basah Road, Singapore, on Wednesday last, a Chinese armed with an axe attacked two other Chinese. One of the attacked men was fatally wounded. The other was taken to hospital with a serious scalp wound. The attacker ran in the direction of Stamford Road, pursued by civilians. He threw his axe into the canal as he ran, and was seized by a Chinese detective. No reason for the attack is apparent. It was not a case of running amok.

This morning's Harbour Office reports gave 22 arrivals and 24 departures, leaving 55 vessels in harbour, of which 17 were British. Japanese registered the top figures. In arrivals, without departures, while the British departures were extremely heavy. Tonnage will be a safer place to walk about in. Pleasant to live in, too. Don't you think so?—Yours, etc.

"LES MISERABLES."

VICTOR HUGO CLASSIC AT THE QUEEN'S

After witnessing the screening of "Les Misérables" at the Queen's Theatre last night, the writer is left in some doubt as to whether it is possible to do justice to Victor Hugo's classic through the medium of the cinema. The remarkable descriptive parts of the great work cannot, of course, be emphasised, and this may be one of the reasons why the film is not so convincing as one had hoped it would be. Moreover, long as it is, the film has been very considerably cut, and it has probably suffered somewhat on this account also.

These factors notwithstanding, "Les Misérables" holds the interest to the very end, and some of the incidents are very vividly portrayed, notably the revolution scenes, even though these are not so spectacular as some seen in other big films.

A French production, it is difficult to compare the film with the lavish products of Hollywood, or even those of the British and German film industries. All through, it bears the peculiar stamp of French influence; and one is left with the impression that the story is acted rather than lived.

In giving these impressions, the writer does not wish it to be inferred that the film is not worth seeing. Far from it. For it can be classed among the really big efforts. Some of the acting, too, is extremely powerful. In this connexion, special mention must be made of the fine work of M. Gabriel Gabrio in the part of Jean Valjean, who dominates the action throughout.

It is also to be noted that Mr. Grovill, the well-known Musical Director of the Queen's Theatre, has prepared a special musical score for this film, and the orchestra under his control does much to add to the enjoyment of the production. Owing to the length of the film, only three performances can be given daily, these starting promptly at 2.30, 6.00 and 9.15 p.m. "Les Misérables" is being screened up to and inclusive of Saturday.

CORRESPONDENCE.

HOOT TOOT!

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—These confounded motor horns—toot, toot, toot all day long. And half the night. Quite unnecessary. Screaming, shrieking, hooting all along Connaught Road, the Praya, Des Voeux Road, everywhere.

Empty road, coast clear, not a man in sight, not even a woman carrying dirt, or a solitary coolie tugging away at a ten-ton truck. Along a public car—toot-toot-toot the whole time. Chauffeur one hand on the wheel, the other on the horn. That sets all the others going. Like bull-frogs in a swamp.

You, Sir, are all right, of course, no cars come up Wyndham Street. If they did, you'd have had something to say about it by now, I'll be bound. [We have, many times.—Ed.]

But you'll sympathise, I know. This freedom to render life intolerable must be stopped. Something must be done about it. What about an Ordinance? Any chauffeur caught tooling unnecessarily to get one stroke of the birch for each toot. After a few days, most of the chauffeurs in Hongkong would have to drive standing up. But there'd be no more tooling for the fun of it. Hongkong would be a safer place to walk about in. Pleasant to live in, too. Don't you think so?—Yours, etc.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

MILITARY PARADE AT WONG NEI CHONG.

To celebrate His Majesty's Birthday (Sunday, June 3rd) a parade of the Garrison is to take place on the Wong Nei Chong Recreation Ground at 9 a.m. on Monday, June 4th.

The Jockey Club has kindly placed the Grand Stand and members' enclosure at the disposal of the public.

The Hongkong Club Stand has been placed at the disposal of H.E. the Officer Administering the Government, and will be reserved for Mrs. Southern's party, members of the Councils and Heads and Assistant Heads of Government Departments.

A policeman was constantly being interrupted by cries of "Speak up!" "Louder!" from a member of his audience. Fixing his eye on the offender, the candidate said, calmly and impressively—

"I do not propose to raise my voice, because I think the ears of the man who interrupts me are quite long enough to hear at that distance."

The Very Idea!

A Home reader tells how, when becalmed one evening while yachting in Bombay Harbour, the talk turned on ghosts. The skipper (whose name was one well known in India) claimed to be the only person present who had actually seen one. He told how he had taken a shooting in Scotland with a friend, with whom he stayed in an old house turned into a shooting box. One night he woke suddenly and saw in the bright moonlight in the room the figure of a man standing over a woman who was on her knees with clasped hands raised imploringly. The man seemed to be in the act of striking her, and the skipper jumped out of bed, only to find that there was no one there. Later he was told that a murder had been committed in that very room.

When the skipper's tale was finished a lady present on the yacht remarked, "I think I could give you the name of that house. It was—" "How did you know?" asked the skipper.

"Because," was the reply, "the same thing happened to my brother in the same room when he had the shooting last year."

No man really loves a woman until he has known what it is to grit his teeth to keep himself from wringing her neck. And every woman knows it. It is equally true that no woman loves a man until she has known what it is to want to scratch his eyes out."

So says the writer, Lucien Cary, and who shall gainsay him?

Traveller (examining his hotel bill)—"Here, you're charging me for electricity and there isn't any in the hotel."

Manager—"Exactly, sir, that's for its installation."

Solicitor: How did you know the man was drunk?

Witness: Well, the street was long enough, but it wasn't wide enough for him.

Defendant (a woman): Did I scream in fear?

Constable: No, you screamed in a cab.

Solicitor: Do you drink?

Witness (a farmer): Certainly not!

Solicitor: Then why were you taking home a bottle of beer?

Witness: To make shandies for myself. A farmer must have his glass of beer or shandy.

Female defendant: I was walking along the street respectfully when a man came up and spoke to me.

Willesden magistrate to a young married couple: The winter of your discontent is passing, and there is a bright future before you.

A witness named Cumming was called at Willesden, but there was no response. Magistrate (after a brief wait): Perhaps the witness is not Cumming.

Solicitor in London court: In a case heard in Edward VI's reign it was held that "only the Devil knows what is in the mind of man;" but the onus has since been shifted to your Worship by the Legislature.

WET IN MORE THAN ONE SENSE.

CAFE IMPERIAL SELLS BEER AFTER HOURS.

MILITARY COMPLAINT.

"Why did the sergeant take the pint of beer if he was on duty? If I was doing wrong, he was doing worse." So remarked Mrs. Anderson, proprietress of the Imperial Cafe, of No. 60, Nathan Road, Kowloon, when she was charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, with selling four glasses of beer during prohibited hours, namely, at 9.30 p.m. on May 14th.

The defendant said it was raining at the time and "the boys" wanted beer with their meals. She was strongly tempted and supplied them with drinks. The defendant added that they were Service men and had come in from the rain. She had also treated two of her friends.

His Worship: Were these customers very wet, then?

Defendant: No; they were not very wet, but they wanted beer and I was tempted to give it to them.

Inspector J. Ogg prosecuted and said as the result of complaints received from officers of the Queen's Regiment, that quite a number of soldiers had been getting drunk, it was suspected that the defendant was supplying them with drinks.

Two police recruits, accompanied by soldiers, went to the defendant's cafe on the night in question and were served with beer.

Inspector Ogg said it was raining and it was possible it was on this account the defendant had served them with beer.

His Worship said that under the circumstances he would register a conviction and a caution.

ARMED ROBBERS ESCAPE.

POLICE SEARCH FOR TWO MEN.

Shortly after eleven o'clock this morning, a report was received at Police Headquarters that two armed robbers were escaping after a successful visit which they made to a house in the central part of the city.

It appears that two men visited the second floor of No. 14, Cochrane Street, where they found, as the sole tenant, a woman whom they easily terrorised with a show of weapons.

They took her personal trinkets and were on the point of making a search for other valuables on the premises when, it seems, they were frightened into making a hasty flight.

Police officers arrived a few minutes after the robbery, but the men could not be traced. In the meantime, all the Police Stations have been circularised and detectives sent out.

In her statement, the victim said that one of the robbers was armed with a knife, while his colleague had a revolver and also a dagger. They gained admittance by pushing up the trap-door which covers the top of the staircase.

The men were more or less well-dressed, having their hair "parted according to the American style" and they also wore socks and shoes. They spoke Cantonese.

MAN'S IMPOSSIBLE POSITION.

SEVENTY-TWO, NO WORK AND NO WHERE TO GO.

"What will become of him if he can't earn a living? He can't get a licence and there is no poor-house, how can he live?" Thus Lt. Col. F. Eaves at the Magistracy this morning when a Chinese was brought before him for hawking without a licence.

The man stated he had been in the Colony for a long time. He was seventy-two years of age and was hawking in the hope of making a living.

His Worship was about to recommend the man for a free licence, when the officer in charge of hawkers informed the Magistrate that no more licences could be issued this year.

His Worship: Is there no poor-house or refuge for these poor people?—No, your Worship.

Addressing the defendant his Worship said that the law said he could not hawk without a licence and that being so, his Worship had no alternative in the matter. He closed the episode by telling the defendant to "go to some Chinese Hospital and see if they can help you."

A Chinese passenger on the Golden Star, which left the Kowloon Wharf at 7.30 p.m. yesterday attempted to commit suicide by jumping into the harbour. He was rescued by the engineer of the steamer launch Kwong On and sent to hospital.

FROM HOLLAND TO JAVA.

RADIO-PHONE TALKS NOW REGULAR.

NOVEL SCHEME ORGANISED IN BATAVIA.

RELATIVES CONVERSE.

Batavia, May 12.—Wireless enthusiasts will learn with interest of an experiment that is being made in Java.

The chief of the postal and telegraph services has organised a series of private radio-telephone conversations between residents in Java and their relatives in Holland. The experiment at present is only in the initial stages, but it has been carried out with complete, one might almost say, astonishing success.

The method employed is as follows:—Half-a-dozen well-known officials or commercial men are invited to send in the names and addresses of anyone in Holland to whom they desire to speak and attend on certain evenings at the head office of the telegraph services.

The arrangements are telephoned to the Hague, and at the time named the guests sit round a table in Batavia, each wearing earphones and communication is opened with the Hague, the line being relayed from the Malabar despatching Station near Bandung.

Parents Hear Children.

Each person is allotted three minutes conversation. Those who have been privileged to receive an invitation tell me that the voices in Holland were just as distinct as if they had been speaking on the telephone from a neighbouring house. I learn, says a correspondent, that parents have been quite overcome with emotion on hearing the voices of their children.

In these experiments everyone taking part hears the conversation of each person in turn so there is no secrecy, and of course anyone elsewhere can listen in.

When these communications are put on a commercial footing and a regular service opened there will be privacy in the despatch and receipt of the messages, but there will still be the publicity due to "listening in." This difficulty will naturally be a limitation to the general use of such a service for important commercial or domestic messages.

Untold Possibilities.

This, no doubt, will be overcame in time, and in fact there are persistent rumours that a local inventor has already discovered a method.

Certainly it will open up untold possibilities for the future and would add enormously to the value of the present experiments which, by the way, are the first of the kind in the Far East.

Yesterday, the experiment was carried a stage further and communication opened between Bandung and England for the special benefit of Mr. Ormsby-Gore.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore's Talk.

Sitting in his own room at the Preanger Hotel, Mr. Ormsby-Gore was able, by means of special apparatus, to hold a conversation with his chief, Mr. Amery, who spoke from his office in London, and then with his wife, Lady Beatrice Ormsby-Gore, who spoke from her home.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore told Mr. Amery that he was highly impressed with the laboratories at Buitenzorg, and added that there was nothing to equal them in the British Empire. He conversed with Lady Beatrice on family matters, inquiring particularly after the health of the children.

Following this the telegraph authorities had a conversation with officials at the London General Post Office. Altogether it was a highly successful demonstration of the new invention.

SHOES AT FIVE CENTS A PAIR.

OLD MAN IGNORES COURT WARNING.

An old Chinese, discharged with a caution yesterday by Lt. Col. F. Eaves for hawking shoes without a licence, was brought before his Worship again this morning, arrested by the same constable.

This time the old man was not so fortunate, and, in imposing a fine of $2, Lt. Col. Eaves remarked that he had cautioned him yesterday and he could not do so again.

The old man claimed that he sold shoes at 5 cents a pair.

COTTON WORKERS' WAGES.

PROPOSED REDUCTION IS NOT APPROVED.

FEDERATION VOTES.

London, May 22.—The ballot on the proposal to reduce the wages of cotton workers by 12½ per cent. shows that the requisite majority was not obtained.

Only 28 per cent. of the Egyptian Section were in favour of the resolution, which was supported by 66 per cent. of the American Section.

No further action is being taken.—Reuter.

The proposal to reduce wages by 12½ per cent. was contained in a resolution passed by the General Committee of the Federation of Cotton Spinners Associations at Manchester on May 4th.

A copy of the resolution was sent to the Members of the Federation with two ballot-papers, one for the American Section of the industry and one for the Egyptian Section.

The Federation Members were asked to vote whether they were willing to leave the question of the reduction of wages to be dealt with by the Federation Committee and to close the mills if necessary to enforce the demand.

A LITTLE DRUNK.

JAPANESE SENTENCED AT KOWLOON.

A fine of $5 was imposed by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, on a Japanese, named Tajima, who was charged with being drunk and incapable at the Yaumati Ferry Wharf yesterday.

The defendant admitted that he was "a little drunk."

His Worship:—I seem to remember his face; he's been here before, hasn't he?

Inspector Marks:—Numerous times.

His Worship:—He seems to run straight for three or four months and then break out again.

Inspector Marks:—When he does break out, he does so strongly.

Sentence of seven days' hard labour was imposed in default of payment of the fine.

SCOTS GUARDSMAN CHARGED.

ALLEGED ASSAULT ON FIRE OFFICER.

A charge of assault was preferred against Guardsman John Duncan, Right Flanking Company, Scots Guards, Nanking Barracks, before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, the complainant being Mr. J. Haas, a sub-officer of the Kowloon Fire Brigade.

The incident was alleged to have taken place at the Laichikok bon at 5 p.m. on May 13th.

The complainant intimated that he was calling seven ladies and two gentlemen as witness, while the defendant remarked that he had three witnesses.

The case was accordingly adjourned until 2.15 p.m. on Friday, June 1.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL ENDS.

OVER THIRTY POLES SENTENCED.

EX-DIET MEMBERS GET LONG SENTENCES.

PRIEST ACQUITTED.

Warsaw, May 22.—Thirty-seven of the 56 "White" Ruthenian Communists, charged with conspiracy, have been found guilty.

Four of the accused who were former members of the Diet, namely MM. Taraszkiewicz, Rakimchayowski, Woloszyn and Miroszki, were sentenced to twelve years' penal servitude, and the others to terms varying from eight years to three years.

The nineteen who were acquitted include the priest, Father Ostroski, and the politician, M. Luckiewicz.—Reuter.

Over 2,000 Witnesses.

Over 2,000 witnesses were called for the prosecution in the trial of the accused who were alleged to be members of "White" Ruthenian Communist organisations known as "Hromada."

The accused were charged with conspiring to throw over the present regime in Poland; also forcibly to detach, for the benefit of Soviet Russia, a part of Poland inhabited by White-Ruthenians.

Financed by Soviet.

On March 18th, one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution was murdered in a restaurant. The murderer was alleged to have been committed by several well-known Communists, who were later arrested.

Soviet Sentences.

Riga, May 22.—The Soviet Tribunal at Smolensk, which has been trying cases of persons alleged to have taken part in an economic counter-revolutionary plot, has sentenced two men to death and awarded long terms of imprisonment to six others.—Reuter.

RECENT JUNK PIRACIES.

FOUR MEN CHARGED AT KOWLOON.

Recent piracy outrages on board trading junks and fishing boats, in British waters, have culminated in the apprehension of four men, alleged to have been concerned in an armed robbery committed on a fishing boat in Lung Ku Tan Harbour, New Territories, on May 16th.

In addition to charges of robbery preferred against the four men, who appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, they were also charged with kidnapping the master for ransom.

Sub-Inspector Dorling, who prosecuted, applied for a date to be fixed.

The defendants were remanded for one week formally, the case being fixed for hearing on Thursday afternoon.

SCOTLAND YARD ENQUIRY.

CONFINED TO ALLEGATIONS OF THIRD DEGREE.

A SPELLING ERROR.

London, May 22.—It has been decided definitely that the proposed tribunal inquiry into the Hyde Park Case will be confined to the circumstances in which Miss Savidge was taken to Scotland Yard and interrogated for many hours by detectives.

It is now disclosed that the name of the lady connected with Sir Leo Chiozza Money in the case, is spelt "Savidge" and not as formerly reported.—Reuter.

The Home Secretary's motion to appoint a Committee was postponed until a substantial agreement by all parties, notably of the Labourites, was reached that the enquiry should be limited to the interrogation of Miss Savidge on May 15 and that the issue should not be obscured by Sir Leo Chiozza Money's case.

In the meantime one of the most important witnesses for Sir Leo Chiozza Money's case, known as the "man with the umbrella," has turned up and interviewed Sir Leo Chiozza Money's solicitor. He is the man who, when the detectives were taking Sir Leo Chiozza Money and Miss Savidge to the station, handed over the umbrella which Sir Leo Chiozza Money left behind. Hitherto he had remained in the background and had not been identified.—Reuter.

HAWKER VICTIMISED.

PAID $20 FOR USELESS "LICENCE."

A very curious incident occurred at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when a Chinese produced an affirmation for distress for which he said he had paid $20, for the privilege of hawking cloth.

The defendant was charged with selling cloth without a licence and when the indictment was read to him he said he had a licence which was in the possession of the police.

Sergeant Hargreaves handed his Worship a document which, after examination, his Worship said was an affirmation for distress and was curiously filled in.

When asked where he had obtained the document, the defendant said that he had paid $20 for it. He was given the paper by a man in the compound of the Central Police Station.

Sergeant Hargreaves told his Worship that the defendant had apparently been victimised and appeared to be quite genuine in his belief that the document served as a licence, although he had had a proper licence some three years ago. His previous licence had been cancelled, but he should have known what a licence looked like.

Sergeant Hargreaves added that it might have been a teacher, who had done a similar thing to a woman last week, who had victimised the defendant.

When asked if he knew the man who had given him the paper, the defendant replied that he was a Chinese teacher who gave lessons to Europeans. He (defendant) would be able to recognise him again.

His Worship discharged the defendant, informing him that the "licence" was not in order.

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

"DORMY ONE ROUND."

COMPSTON'S RECORD GOLF WIN.

SYMPATHY FOR HAGEN

[By A. C. M. Croome.]

When I lived near Oxford and played on the University course at Radley I used to count the score against one of my more frequent opponents in an esoteric manner. I reckoned that I had done ill unless I beat him by at least two fields up and one to play. But I never treated my pet duffer so scurvy as Compston treated Walter Hagen at Moor Park on Friday and Saturday. Everybody, except perhaps Compston's caddie, was very sorry for Hagen. Caddies have no bowels.

It was hard that the American professional golfer should run up against a world-beating performance when he was short of practice, and possibly also of physical condition. The poor fellow was not even allowed to forget the score! A man walked round carrying a board bearing Compston's name with an incredibly large and increasing tally of figures after it!

Yet Hagen played by no means badly—quite well enough at any rate to make a word of warning to his competitors at Sandwich timely. No man may reasonably back his score in the Open Championship against Hagen's, unless he is confident in his ability to return 300 or better.

The Will to Win.

I arrived at Moor Park on Saturday just in time to see Compston play the odd on to the first green. He also had to play the odd on the second green. But Hagen missed a putt of ten feet or so to win the holes. That was practically decisive. Unless he was going to take all such chances as that he was bound to fall further behind, for Compston did not mean to lose holes. An hour's inspiring practice after breakfast with his shorter iron clubs had fixed his tail firmly to the nape of his neck.

The tale of the third round can be told quite briefly. The standard of the golf was so high as to affect the sense of perspective in the minds of the spectators. We wanted the Britisher to win, of course, but we also wanted the stranger within our gates to enjoy himself within limits. When Hagen put his ball on the green with a shot which we would gladly have taken for our best, we shook despondent heads and remarked that he had not "played" it. It was not his day for holing long putts, and he misdirected at least two short ones.

Once, and once only, Hagen found the proceedings amusing. A fine approach to the 16th green gave him a chance to get a hole back. Compston's odd stymied him hopelessly. Hagen's grim countenance beamed for a moment with a smile, and he tipped his ball up for a half.

Winner's Three Mistakes.

Compston made three mistakes. He pulled his approach to the second into a shallow bunker, and clipped his ball dead off the smoothly-raked sand. He pulled again with his iron at the ninth, and again lay dead with his next. This was one of the shots of the match. A lesser man would have pitched and trusted to luck. Compston played his ball firmly on to the low fronting bank of the green, and it bounced up with just enough life to make it run to the hole.

From the fourteenth tee Compston drove into a narrow drain which crosses the course (say) 200 yards in front of him. His drives had averaged about 280 yards. So it was a foolish action to take his driver and hit a full shot with it!

When Hagen saw Mr. Roger Wethered beat Mr. Robert Harris in the final of the Amateur Championship at Deal he remarked: "If this young fellow can play like that he has got the Open won by six strokes." He has once again seen golf played as Mr. Wethered played it on that memorable occasion. It is impossible to pay a higher compliment to Compston.

It may be worth while to give the full scores in this memorable run-away match:

strain, and it is not expected that A. W. Carr will overwork him this season. It is evident, however, that during a brief period in which he was given the ball he bowled with deadly effect.

DIPPER IN FORM.

Just Short of Century in Each Innings.

Against Oxford University at Oxford, Dipper, Gloucester's first wicket batsman, made 110 in the first innings and 87 not out in the second.

The match was drawn, the scores being:

Gloucester: 344 and 182 (for 2 wickets).

Oxford: 315 and 44 (for 2 wickets).

Dipper's 110 enabled Gloucester to gain a lead of 29 on the first innings, and in the second they declared when Oxford needed 212 and prevented the conclusion of the match.

PROMISING YOUNGSTER.

Gibbons Hits Another Century.

At Southampton, Hampshire won on the first innings against Worcester, in spite of another fine display by Gibbons, who hit his second century in successive matches, and incidentally, the second century in his first-class career.

He is a former member of the ground staff at Lord's and is distinctly promising.

The scores were:

Worcester: 244 and 134 (for 6 wickets).

Hampshire: 329.

For Worcester, Gibbons scored 107 and for Hants, Kead contributed 129.

A WASH-OUT.

One Wicket Falls at Lord's.

The South of England experienced weather much worse than in any other part of the country and the match between the M.C.C. and the West Indies at Lord's was a complete wash-out. Marylebone scored 65 (for 1 wicket) and there was no further play.

At the Oval.

Conditions at the Oval were much the same, where Essex batting first scored 94 for the loss of 2 wickets. Surrey of course had no opportunity of batting.

A Century.

At Chesterfield, Derbyshire scored 164 runs for the loss of seven wickets against Somerset and Mr. G. R. Jackson then declared. Somerset made 38 for 1 wicket but rain prevented further play. The match does not count in the championship owing to the fact that less than six hours play was possible.

The same applies to the match at Hull between Sussex and Yorkshire. Sussex went in first and scored 247, the principal contributor being Cook with 105. Yorkshire made 49 for 1 wicket.—Reuters.

A ping pong match between the Royal Engineers' Sergeants' Mess and the St. Peter's Church Young Men's Club was played at the Club house last night, and resulted in a win for the Young Men's Club by 117 games to 58.

The Military men are to be congratulated on putting up such a good show in their first public appearance and after little more experience they will no doubt prove worthy opponents of the local teams.

WORKERS BUY GREYHOUNDS.

LATEST PHASE IN DOG RACING.

"The main idea that has entered the minds of so many people is that greyhound racing was started with the view of being an 'animated roulette board,' and that the foundation of the sport is botting."

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary, made this observation when replying to a deputation representing the National Greyhound Society and the National Greyhound Racing Club, which put before him their views on the Dog Racing Bill now before the House of Commons. The object of the Bill is to provide for the licensing of greyhound tracks by local authorities.

Lord Askwith, who headed the deputation, denied that there was an enormous number—176—of tracks throughout the country. There were, he said, about 40 actually running or starting. It was not anticipated that many more tracks would be wanted, but there might be 20 to 30 more established, especially in the North.

Every assistance, he said, would be given to see that juveniles did not bet.

KING ALFONSO'S VIEWS.

Investigations had shown that drinking had diminished in the neighbourhood of all big courses. People could not get drink on the tracks.

Greyhound racing had been declared to be the greatest cure for boredom ever found, and the King of Spain, when at the White City, had said that it was the greatest cure for anarchy he had ever seen.

"If the 'tote' is brought in with regard to horse racing," Lord Askwith said, "it may be desirable at a later date to consider whether it would be advisable to apply it to greyhound racing, and our own idea is that it would be a good thing."

A good many working and middle-class people were co-operating to buy dogs and race them. They could not afford to buy racehorses.

The Home Secretary, in his reply, said: "You have asked me to investigate questions of disorder. I have already done that, and at the proper time I shall be prepared to tell the House what the reports of the police throughout the country show on this matter."

Sir William said that he did not suggest that in the big centres of greyhound racing there was any disorder on the course.

Cabinet to Decide.

"This Government," he continued, "has no objection to sport in any way whatever. I myself have none; I am very fond of sport."

So far as this was a sport for the multitude, in which working men could take their share, even more perhaps than they could in horse racing, the Government would not hinder it.

All the facts, he said, must be put before the Cabinet before any decision was arrived at.

With regard to juvenile betting, Sir William said that it was agreed and admitted on all hands to be an evil wherever it took place, and that had been one of the main accusations against greyhound racing.

He was glad to hear that they were prepared to see that juveniles did not bet. The evil applied, of course, not only to greyhound racing, but to any sport.

He thought the public conscience would agree that the sooner Parliament took steps to signify the feeling of the country that juvenile betting was an evil and should be stopped as far as possible the better.

Sir William assured the deputation that the Prime Minister and the Government would give full consideration to what they had said.

VAN LEAR BLACK'S FLIGHT.

ANOTHER PLANE ORDERED.

Amsterdam, May 22.

The Royal Dutch Air Line has received a cable from the pilot, Mr. Scholte, from Khartoum as follows: "Van Lear Black and Geysseroffer left on Monday afternoon on a special train. Hold aeroplane in readiness at Marseilles. Van Lear Black still intends to carry out the flight."—Reuter.

Wing and Engine Trouble.

Khartoum, May 22.

Mr. Van Lear Black has cancelled his flight owing to a damaged wing and to engine trouble. He left for Cairo last night on a special train, and if necessary will charter a special steamer at Alexandria for Marseilles, then will go to London as the second machine is not ready. He now proposes to fly to Tokyo first and to the Cape later. The date of his departure for Tokyo is uncertain.—Reuter.

FUTURE OF RUBBER.

LOOKING THROUGH A LONG TELESCOPE.

Singapore, May 22.

Presiding at the annual meeting of the Planters' Association of Malaya, Mr. J. S. Arter, speaking from his considerable knowledge of planters and estates in Malaya and Ceylon, said that he was certain that, failing an International agreement, their successful course now lay in a good, exhilarating professional battle.

If they got it, "Looking through a telescope two years long" he saw some disgruntled rubber brokers, tried speculators, unpeased consumers, and sadder if not wiser Dutch planting friends but planters were still extant.—Reuter.

DUTCH LINER SINKS.

COLLISION WITH AMERICAN STEAMER.

New York, May 22.

The Dutch liner Veendam, which collided with the American steamer Porto Rico in a fog in Lower Bay on Saturday, sank alongside the pier at Hoboken.—Reuter's American Services.

GIRL ALONE

By ANNE AUSTIN.
Author of "Saint and Sinner."

CHAPTER XLIII.
It was a desolately unhappy Sally who began what she considered the unbearable task of living those two years which Courtney Barr had decreed should separate the orphan, Sally. Ford, from the society debutante, Sally Barr. A dozen times, at least, during those first few weeks she would have run away, straight to David Nash, if she had not given her word of honour both to her mother and to her mother's husband.

But, almost insensibly, she began to enjoy life again. It was a soul-satisfying experience to have an apparently unlimited supply of spending money and the most beautiful wardrobe of any girl in the little Virginia city to which Courtney Barr had taken her. For many days almost every mail brought her a package from New York, addressed in Enid Barr's surprisingly big handwriting. She and her mother wrote each other twice a week, and Enid early formed that habit of sending her a weekly budget of clippings from the papers about the social set in which the Barrs moved so brilliantly—"so you will become acquainted with the names of those who will be your friends," as Enid wrote her daughter.

Gradually the unreality of her new position and of her future expectations wore off and Sally came to regard herself as really the daughter of the Courtney Barrs.

She lived for the rest of the summer with Courtney Barr's third cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barr, who were glad of both the money and the companionship which Sally brought them. To their friends, the Charles Barrs, explained that Sally was an orphaned cousin, and the story, apparently was never questioned. She was accepted cordially by the carefree young people of the small city's best social set, and was sometimes ashamed of the pleasure she had in being a popular, well-dressed, pretty young girl.

She reproached herself for not mourning constantly for David, but she knew that not for an instant were her loyalty and love for him threatened by her strange new experiences. And, although she had given her promise not to write to David, she composed long, intimate letters to him every week, putting them away in her trunk in the confident belief that he would some day read them and love them, because she had written them.

She told him everything in these letters she could not send—told him of the two or three nice boys who declared their puppy love for her; confessed, with tears that blotted the pages, that she had left one of them kiss her, because he seemed so hurt at her first refusal; described her new clothes with child-like enthusiasm; tucked snapshots of herself in the enchanting new dresses between the folded pages; in fact, poured out her heart to him far more unfeignedly than would have been possible if she had been mailing the letters.

Not feeling at all that she was breaking her promise, she subscribed to The Capital Press and to the college newspaper, avidly searching them for any news of David and jealously hoarding the clippings with which her diligence was rewarded.

In this way she learned that he was elected president of the junior class; that he "made" the football eleven as half-back; that—and she almost fainted with terror—that he was slightly injured during the Thanksgiving game, when A. & M. beat the State University team in a bitterly fought contest.

By that time she was in the finishing school which Courtney Barr had chosen for her, and was herself becoming prominent in school activities through her talent for dramatics. When David's college paper printed a two-column picture of her sweetheart she cut it out and framed it. The greatest joy she had that first year of her new life was to hear the other girls rave about his good looks and his athletic record, of which she bragged swaggeringly.

During spring term she was chosen by the dramatic director to take the lead in the school's last play of the year, "The Clinging Vine." Sally Ford, or Sally Barr, as she was known at the school, was again happy "play-acting." Enid and Courtney Barr came down from New York for the plays and for commencement exercises, though Sally would not graduate for another year. It was the first time they had seen her mother since they had parted in the little mid-western town where Enid had found Sally being married to David Nash.

"But how adorably pretty you are!" Enid exclaimed wonderingly, when she had the girl safe in the privacy of her own suite in a nearby hotel. "I wanted to nudge every fond mama sitting near me and exult, 'That's my daughter! Isn't she beautiful? Isn't she a wonderful little actress?' Are you happy, darling?"

Sally's cheeks popped-red with excitement and pleasure in her success in the school play, twirled lightly on the toe of her silver slipper, so that her pink chiffon skirt belled out like a ballet dancer's.

"Happy? I'm thrilled and excited, and happy, that you're here, but sometimes I'm lonely, in spite of my new friends. Oh, Mother," she cried, catching Enid's hand impulsively, "won't you let me go back with you and Mr. Barr now? I want to be with someone I belong to! I don't fit in here, really—I guess I'm still an orphan Sally Ford inside. I'm always expecting them to snub me, or taunt me with being an orphan."

Enid's eyes filled over with tears, but she shook her head. "We must try to be patient, darling. Try and be at home with girls like these—girls who have always had money and social position and—culture. It's a loathsome word, but I don't know any better one for what I mean. Don't you see, sweet heart? Mother wants you to be ready for New York when you come, so that you will be happy, not timid and ill-at-ease. Court was very wise. I've come to see that now. Please try to be patient, darling."

"And this summer?" Sally quivered. "He said I could be with you at your Long Island home."

But Enid was shaking her head again, her eyes infinitely fond and pitying. "I'm going abroad, dear. I haven't been very well this winter—just tired, too much gayety, I think. The doctors advise a rest cure in Southern France. I want you to go to a girls' camp in New Hampshire. It's really a part of your education, social and physical. I want you to ride and swim all summer, with the sort of girls whom you'll be meeting when you do join us in New York."

"You're to learn to play golf, perfect your game of tennis. By the way, I want you to go to as many house-parties on your holidays as you can. Learn to flirt with the college youngsters you'll meet; be gay, don't be—" "Institutional," Sally interrupted in a low voice as she turned sharply away from her mother.

It was almost relief to the girl when Enid was gone. Her mother's exquisite, fragile beauty, her unconscious arrogance, her sometimes caustic wit, formed a barrier between them, in spite of the almost worshipful love that Sally felt for her.

Enid, when she was with her, somehow made the 17-year-old girl feel gawky, underdone, awkward, shy. Those cornflower blue eyes, when they were not misted with tears of affection for this daughter whom she had so recently discovered, seemed to Sally to be a powerful microscope, trained upon all her deficiencies, enlarging them to frightening proportions. She knew that, in these moments of critical survey her mother was looking upon her, not as a beloved daughter miraculously restored to her, but as a future debutante, bearer of the proud name of Barr, and as a pawn in the marriage game as it is played in the most exclusive circles of New York society.

And Sally squirmed miserably, pitifully afraid that she would never measure up to the standard

MR. FORD AT MORRIS MOTOR WORKS.

"FURTHER AHEAD THAN MOST AMERICANS THINK."

While at Oxford recently Mr. Henry Ford paid a surprise informal visit to the works of Morris Motors (1926), Ltd., at Cowley. He did not meet Mr. W. R. Morris, who, unaware of the intended visit, was away at one of his other factories.

Mr. Ford saw the complete process of making Morris cars, and said he was surprised at the size of the plant, and the large number of cars turned out hourly.

"You are further ahead here than most Americans think," he said to one of the officials of the company.

He said later that he would be sorry to see any diminution in British competition and that he regarded England as the natural centre of trade in the Eastern hemisphere.

Mr. Ford arrived in a new Ford car, driven by a chauffeur. He said that his visit to Oxford had been primarily to see the colleges, but, when asked whether he would care to see the Cowley works, replied:

"Yes, I would rather look at engines than colleges."

After his inspection he said: "I think the British work just as hard as Americans."

DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRY.

SIR ALFRED MOND AND THE NEW COMBINE.

AMERICAN ELEMENT.

The announcement of the formation of an Anglo-American Company, with the object of developing industries in any part of the world where opportunities are offered, has created widespread interest, and has given rise to a number of interesting questions, such as, how far the Americans are co-operating in the enterprise, what sort of financing is to be done, and what industries and processes are to be assisted and developed.

Sir Alfred Mond, the head of Imperial Chemical Industries, who is the chairman of the new company, replied in an interview with a Press representative to these questions and others that were put to him.

As to the extent of American co-operation, the Chase Securities Corporation of New York owns, said, and will retain, one-half of the nominal capital of the company, and Mr. Wiggin, who is chairman of the Chase National Bank and the Chase Securities Corporation, is a member of the British board of the company. "There has been, for a considerable time," Sir Alfred pointed out, "a relationship between the great industries of Great Britain and of the United States, and the formation of this company will bring the leaders of industry in both countries into very much closer and more intimate co-operation."

Capital Resources.

"What will be the capital resources of the company?" he was asked, repeating the statement that nominal capital is £2,040,000.

"The nominal capital of the company," he replied, "is, of course, no index to the real financial position. It will clearly have available an almost unlimited supply of credit and capital through its association on both sides of the Atlantic."

"And what are the industries to be developed?"

To this question Sir Alfred replied by saying: "I would rather at this moment put it in this way, namely, that the purpose of the company is to provide additional credit and capital for the development of British, Imperial, and International industries. Whilst preference will always be given by the company to the development of British and imperial industries, no prejudice will be shown against the development of industries in other countries. At this moment it is clearly premature to specify any particular industry or any process that the company might take an interest in."

"And this summer?" Sally quivered. "He said I could be with you at your Long Island home."

But Enid was shaking her head again, her eyes infinitely fond and pitying. "I'm going abroad, dear. I haven't been very well this winter—just tired, too much gayety, I think. The doctors advise a rest cure in Southern France. I want you to go to a girls' camp in New Hampshire. It's really a part of your education, social and physical. "You're to learn to play golf, perfect your game of tennis. By the way, I want you to go to as many house-parties on your holidays as you can. Technical Experts.

As to the need that exists for an enterprise on these lines, and the scope for its activities, Sir Alfred remarked that in countries such as Germany the banks have always been more closely associated with the direction of industry than in this country, "and they have always had available," he said, "technical experts to advise them upon any particular process or proposition put up to them. One of the main advantages of the new company will be that it will have at its disposal the best technical experts over a very wide range of industries both in Great Britain and America."

The development of large industry in this country has not taken place to the extent it has in such countries as the United States and Germany. The same facilities have not been provided. The movement for the rationalisation of industries has grown considerably during the last few years, and the effects of this growth have been entirely in the interests both of industry and of the country. By creating the new company those facilities which were lacking before are now to be provided."

American Express Travelers Cheques

Definition of TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES.—
The system of Travellers' Cheques was originated in 1891 by the American Express Company with the object of creating a form of travel currency which would give the holder the security of a letter of credit and at the same time the convenience of local currency. The Company registered the cheques under the trade name of "AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES" the word "Travellers" being spelled with one 'l'. The advantage of the Cheques was so apparent that other banking institutions adopted the system."

SHANGHAI BOYCOTT PROPOSALS.

HONGS NOT TO DEAL WITH JAPANESE CARGO.

Further resolutions with reference to the proposed Japanese boycott have come to light, the most important of which are representatives of the shipping hongs of the port, says the N. C. D. News, of Saturday. It is understood that the representatives of the hongs (doubtless largely composed of delegates of the employees) met on Friday, the numbers being 70 from the Settlement, 60 from the French Concession, and 40 from Nantao, and it was decided that the measures resolved upon should be strictly adhered to. The resolutions in detail follow:

1.—That from May 14, 1928, no cargo be shipped to outports by Japanese steamers, and that from May 21, 1928, no cargo sent to Shanghai by Japanese steamers be cleared.

2.—That from May 14, shipping hongs undertake no shipment of Japanese goods to other ports of China, with the exception of raw materials, which will be examined and certified by the Shanghai General Committee for Opposing the Atrocities perpetrated by Japanese troops in Tsinan.

3.—That a committee to inspect Japanese goods be organized.

4.—That in case of disputes arising among the shipping hongs, the executive committee of the Chinese Shipping Merchants' Guild, Nantao, and the Chinese Mercantile Transportation Merchants' Guild, Chapel, will be referred to for arbitration and settlement.

According to the Chinese papers, certain Chinese dealers continued to handle Japanese goods after being duly warned not to do so. As a result of their action, a committee of the Labourers League has detained the cargo.

The China Times stated that an active boycott of Japanese goods had been instituted in the Yangtze Valley, and that Chinese passengers had refused to patronize Japanese steamers.

No Collecting in Settlement.

It is understood that the request made by students to the Chinese members of the Shanghai Municipal Council that girl students should be permitted to solicit subscriptions in the Settlement for three days has been refused.

To-day will see all local students on strike if the resolutions are carried out which were adopted at the third conference of the General Students' Association, held on Tuesday. These were:

That the students of all schools be urged to effect a strike on May 17 for the initiation of an enlarged propaganda programme against Japan; that demonstration parties, consisting of three members, be organized to make tours to the surrounding districts of Shanghai for the purpose of enlightening the people on Japanese actions in China; that progress reports by such parties be regularly sent to the Association headquarters; that girl students from parties to collect subscriptions; that lecturers in the foreign concessions should maintain an attitude of

PROFESSOR HIDEO NOGUCHI.

Acera, Gold Coast, May 22. The eminent Japanese bacteriologist, Professor Hideyo Noguchi, of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, who arrived here last November to investigate yellow fever, died of that disease, contracted during a laboratory experiment.—Reuters.

Hideyo Noguchi, M. D. and D. Sch., was born in Fukushima-ken.

He was the son of a poor farmer who was able to do but little for his education. By dint of great perseverance and what aid his parents could afford, he studied and worked his way through school, and after a course of hard studies in a private medical school secured a medical licence. He then became assistant at Dr. Klinizito's Laboratory. He eventually found his way to the United States where he perfected his studies. He returned to Japan in 1915. Among his publications are the following: "Snake Venoms," "Serum Diagnosis of Syphilis," and "Butyric Acid Test."

calmness and refrain from excitement in order to avoid misunderstandings; that special bulletins in English should be issued; that the motion picture companies be approached with a view to securing their assistance in filming current slogans; and that Dr. Hu Shih, Dr. H. C. E. Liu, President of Shanghai College, and several other prominent leaders be asked to become members of the Committee, and that lecture parties should be sent to railway stations, to points on the Yangtze River, the Grand Canal, and to Ningpo and Wenzhou.

The students also decided to change the name of their weekly publication from "Shanghai Students" to "Tsinan Tragedy." Postal Employees Roused.

Postal employees are showing a distinctly antagonistic attitude towards the Japanese. This statement is made by the Shanghai Nippon which pointed out that they are attempting to force the ousting of all foreigners from the service. There is also, the paper adds, an alarming decrease in the amount of mail delivered to Japan. Much of this matter has been stamped with anti-Japanese slogans.

A summary prepared by the Mainichi indicates that there are 6,381 Japanese resident in the Hongkew area; 6,182 in North Szechuan Road and Chapel; 831 in Yangtszepoo; and 460 in the Central District which includes the lower portion of the French Concession.

Making Boycott Pay.

The Kuo Min news agency says that definite steps for the severance of economic relations with Japan are to be immediately carried out by various local commercial bodies. These were announced by the committee for opposing Japanese aggression in Tsinan. All merchants having Japanese goods in stock are required to register them with the committee before May 31. Such merchandise will be stamped upon payment of a graduated levy according to the following schedule. Only proper-

FIRST MEETING TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK.

Notices were sent out a little time ago regarding the Peak Children's Club which is to be held on Fridays from 4.45 to 6.15 p.m. during June, July and August in connexion with the M.C.L., but some notices have gone astray. Any child over five years of age who has not received notice and who would like to join, will be most welcome. The subscription is $1 per month.

The first meeting will take place on Friday, 1st June, at 4.45 at Craft Ryrie, 13, The Peak. A small library is to be formed, so each child is requested to bring a book to the first meeting.

INTERPORT SHOOT.

SHANGHAI SCORES 924 AGAINST HONGKONG.

Shanghai shot off last week in the interport shooting match, when the team made a total score of 924. The ranges were 200, 500 and 600 yards, and the high gun was L. A. Motte, with a total of 98 out of a possible 105. Chandler was second with 94, while Ibert, Doyle and Parry had 93 each.

At the same time a match against the City Rifles Club of London was contested, but with a different side.

The score made was 943.

All orders placed before May 5 are liable to payment of one-fourth of the regular levy. Upon arrival of the merchandise, the balance of the levy must be paid before the goods can be stamped and placed on the market. Merchandise ordered between May 5 and May 15 is liable to payment of a double levy, while merchants who have ordered Japanese goods since the 15th are liable to severe punishment besides paying the double levy.

Garrison Commander.

Addressing his subordinate officers and the soldiers of the 32nd Army at the Lunghua Headquarters, General Chien Ta-chun, Commander of the Shanghai and Woosung Gendarmerie, said, in part: "No matter what our personal feelings may be, we must maintain a calm attitude and have confidence in the Central Authorities who are handling the diplomatic situation to the best of their ability. Severance of economic relations with Japan may eventually help us to attain our aims; but, at the same time, we must pay special attention to our duties in protecting all foreign lives and property without discrimination and in preserving peace and order in the rear."

sent to the office of Messrs. Hastings, Dennis and Bowley for interpretation."

"The desire to obtain money from their father's estate was evident in the appellants. This was the direct consequence of what was done."

JUDGMENT RE-AFFIRMED.

"If the finding on the issue of fraud in the Court below be maintained, the legal consequences have been in my opinion rightly assigned. The problem then is to adjust the principles of equity with the position of the infant at common law. I adhere to what I have said in the Court below. I felt strongly the force of the argument for the appellants that the order of the Court below has enabled them to do nothing which they could not already have done without it, and that the assistance of the Court is nugatory. The legal remedies of the appellants are not hereby exhausted. They may obtain a declaration that they are not liable on the personal covenant to repay, but this will not content them."

"The respondents have not elected to rely upon my ruling. In my opinion the Court should order the co-mortgagors to be made parties to these proceedings before varying by order this contract of mortgage.

In my opinion this appeal should fail.

An application by Mr. Jenkin for a stay of execution for 14 days was granted.

MORE LOCAL ARRESTS.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEDITION LITERATURE.

Realising the futility of openly giving vent to their feelings against the Japanese, Chinese agitators have apparently substituted the more drastic method of showing their animosity by smashing windows and giving public orations in the streets by quietly distributing literature containing seditious passages calling upon their nationals to oppose the Japanese.

According to reports from the Police there were none of the untoward incidents which prevailed during the last three or four days. Greater precautions by the shop owners combined with augmented Police patrols have reduced window smashing to a minimum, while the arrests of "orators" have apparently discouraged this form of propaganda.

Yesterday, however, a number of irresponsible Chinese found means of demonstrating against the Japanese by the distribution of seditious literature. Several arrests were made by the Police and it is understood, a number of delinquents will face the Magistrates this morning. The Wan Chai district has been the worst for anti-Japanese feeling and it is from this part of the Colony that most of the arrests were made.

Police on duty on the Praya during the day came across several people who were handing out pamphlets to their compatriots. These were immediately seized and the distributors marched off to the Police Station for enquiries. In other parts of the Colony the arrests were made, in connexion with the distribution of papers containing sedition.

London, May 22.

Following the Government's explanation yesterday regarding the lack of insurance facilities in Great Britain for arms shipments to China, Commander Kenworthy today questioned the Foreign Secretary regarding the issue of licences.

Captain D. H. Hacking, in reply, said that in view of the arms embargo, no licences had been issued for arms and ammunition likely to reach the contending factions in China.

A certain number of licences, however, had been issued in respect of one or two revolvers and a very small consignment of sporting rifles and ammunition for private use, and also a few licences had been issued from time to time for the supply of such war material to bodies like the Shanghai Volunteer Corps and the Chinese Maritime Customs authority.

Commander Kenworthy expressed satisfaction with the Government's statement.—Reuter.

SERIOUS CHARGE.*SCHOOLBOY ANNOYS LADIES.

Chung Yu-fan, an 18-year-old schoolboy, belonging to a well-to-do family, appeared before Major C. Willson, at the Central Police Court this morning, on a charge of indecent behaviour when he met two European ladies in Kennedy Road, at 7.30 on Monday night. He was remanded for a week on bail of $500.

It was stated by the prosecuting police officer that on meeting the two ladies, who were walking together in Kennedy Road, defendant dismounted from his bicycle and went under the light of a street lamp, where he committed the act complained of.

It was the intention of the ladies to seize him on the spot and turn him over to a constable, but he eluded them and ran away. Later, thinking that the coast was clear, he returned for the bicycle but was arrested by a constable, who appeared from cover, and taken to the Central Police Station.

London, May 22.

The Colonial Office announces that the negotiations begun at Jeddah on May 8th between Sir Gilbert Clayton and the King of the Hedjaz, Ibn Saud, have made very satisfactory progress.

The conversations have now been suspended owing to the approach of the pilgrimage season, and the British Mission is returning to London to report.

It will return to Jeddah at the earliest possible moment to resume the negotiations, which throughout have been animated by a spirit of conciliation and a genuine desire to ensure good relations.—Reuter.

London, May 22. The War Office has announced that Colonel G. Badham Thornhill will be the new Military Attaché at Peking.—Reuter.

FAIR WEATHER.

To-day's Observatory report states:—The anticyclone is now central to the east of Tokyo. A depression now covers the whole of China. The forecast up to noon to-morrow is: Southerly winds, moderate; fair.

BRITISH READY FOR CRISIS.

It would be contrary to practice to circulate as a White Paper, the despatches containing the Japanese and the Chinese versions of the incidents at Tsingtao.

Both versions, he pointed out, had been given full publicity in the Press, and the public therefore had the whole case before them.—Reuter.

HWANG FU RESIGNS POST.

Dr. C. T. Wang Likely to Succeed Him.

Shanghai, May 23. Mr. Hwang Fu, the Nationalist Minister for Foreign Affairs, has tendered his resignation, and the Nationalist Government has accepted it.

It is believed that Dr. C. T. Wang, who is at present at Tsingtao, will be given the portfolio.

It has been known for some time that Mr. Hwang Fu has been in poor health with the Cantonese League of the Nationalist Government, and the failure of his guarantees that his relations with Japan would preclude any possibility of a Sino-Japanese clash in Shantung immensely weakened his position, to the extent that he had practically no alternative but to hand in his resignation.—Reuter.

Mr. C. T. Wang, who is a native of Ningpo, is 46 years of age. He is a B. A. of Yale University and has been prominently associated with the Y.M.C.A. movement, having been General Secretary of the National Committee in 1916-17. After the Revolution, he served in various capacities under Li Yuan-hung, joined the Canton Military Government in 1917 and in the following year he was sent as envoy to the United States in an endeavour to secure recognition for that Government. He was also a delegate to the Paris Conference. Since then, he has held various posts, and in 1922 was chief delegate to the Sino-Japanese Commission on Shantung affairs. He has been living in Shanghai in retirement since the Kuomintang evacuation of Peking, but in the summer of 1927 he was commissioned by Marshal Chiang Kai-shek to act as liaison officer with Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang in Honan.

Peking Evacuation.

The family of Mr. Yoshizawa, the Japanese Minister, were among some 200 Japanese residents in Peking who have evacuated, according to vernacular cables. The majority of them were bound for Japan, but a number went to Dairen.

Peking, May 22.

A meeting was held to-day of the various foreign consulates' officials on matters pertaining to problems of communications, and the protection of foreign residents in Peking in the case of the occupation by the Southerners.

Japan Alert.

Shanghai, May 22. That the Japanese public is taking a very serious view of the China situation is indicated by the large number of special correspondents of the leading Japanese newspapers, who have arrived in Tientsin.

It is supposed the Japanese are contemplating eventual happenings at Tientsin.

Soviet Policy Stated.

Moscow, May 22. (10.30 a.m.). M. Chicherin—Interviewed in regard to the Tsinman affair and the Japanese memorandum to the Fengtien authorities said that the Soviet attitude was absolutely negative. The Soviet could not directly or indirectly approve of any intervention or military occupation, particularly of China. The Soviet Government policy was one of good neighbourly relations with China and absolute non-interference in Chinese internal affairs.

How Much Do You Know?

In regard to the charge of possession of seditious literature, the police asked his Worship for a remand, which was granted. It is understood that the case will not be proceeded with until a translation of the documents seized is prepared by the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs.

Kowloon Case.

A Chinese arrested in Woosung Street on Saturday evening was charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with distributing seditious pamphlets and also with being in possession of literature containing seditious matter. On the application of Sergeant Mottram, the defendant was remanded for one week for the documents to be translated.

INTRODUCED.*STANDARDS TO GO.

Street lighting of a most modern and up-to-date type is promised for Kowloon by the introduction of overhead electric lamps in place of the gas lamp standards, which are being removed to make way for the new lamps.

Many have been the complaints received from Peninsula residents with regard to the system of lighting, which has often been described as inadequate, but the new lamps should remove these grounds for complaint from both pedestrians and motorists, particularly the latter.

The lamp standards, which were placed in the centre of the road, rendered traffic conditions difficult on occasions, especially with the advent of the large types of buses, but with the removal of the standards more room will be available for vehicles and traffic conditions will be facilitated.

The absence of these standards will be specially beneficial at night for motor traffic and the greater power of the new electric lights will add a large measure of safety to prevailing conditions, both for motorists and pedestrians.

Up to the present a number of the standards have been removed in the vicinity of Yaumati, Mongkok, and the lower end of Nathan Road, leaving a number of them remaining in the middle portion. It is hoped that the work will be completed during the course of the next few months.

The provision of these lamps in Nathan Road is by way of an experiment, and if they prove as satisfactory as anticipated, it is possible that the improvement will be extended to Hongkong or certain parts, although, we understand, the suggestion has not yet been seriously considered.

COTTON INDUSTRY
BILL.*SECOND READING IN UPPER CHAMBER.

London, May 22. The House of Lords has passed the second reading of the Cotton Industry Bill.—Reuter.

This Bill prolongs for five years the operation of the Cotton Industry Act, but reduces from six pence to threepence the levy imposed under the Act on the sale of every bale of raw cotton—a levy made for the purposes of the Empire Cotton Growing Corporation.
